General Guidelines

- Any problem that persists longer than 24 hours.
- Any problem that worsens over several hours.
- Any problem associated with systemic signs, such as lethargy, loss of appetite, weakness, and fever.
- Body temperature less than 100°F or greater than 104°F.
- Any indication that more than one body system (GI, urinary, neurological) is affected.
- Dog having any type of seizures and foaming at the mouth

Gastrointestinal Problems

- Frequent bouts of vomiting or diarrhea resulting in loss of large volumes of fluid.
- Inability to drink or keep water down.
- Blood or black material (digested blood) in the vomit or stool.
- More than three to four episodes of vomiting or diarrhea in a puppy or in a dog older than 8 years.
- Vomiting following suspected ingestion of foreign material (toys, garbage, rocks, etc.).
- Suspected poisoning.
- Suspected bloat.

Bleeding

- Bleeding from any body cavity (nose, mouth, anus).
- Bleeding accompanied by bruising of the skin, especially the abdominal skin.
- Bleeding that can't be stopped by pressure application.
- When you think blood loss has been excessive.
- Weakness, difficulty breathing, or reluctance to move after a bleeding episode.

Lameness

- Obvious fracture of a limb.
- Nonweight-bearing lameness persisting for more than 12 hours.
- Swollen, painful joints or a gait that appears as if the dog is "walking on eggshells".
- Paralysis of one or more limbs.
- Lameness that initially improves but does not resolve in 24 - 48 hours.

Other Emergencies

- Trauma.
- Venomous snakebite.
- Choking.

Is It an Emergency?

Sign	What to Do
